I would really like to leave a 6-star review because I would. There are three things I have to say about this game. Two good things and one potential addition. The first is the fact that it is fully compatible with offline networks, which means that you can play this game without wifi. Now of course that doesn't apply to most people because they have cellular data that allows you to play games regularly, regardless of whether you have wifi or not. For people who don't have cellular data, don't worry This game can be played very smoothly offline. The second good thing is that I have had no problem unlocking unlocking Generals and other periods because the game is so easy to beat if you have the audacity to grind it 24/7. I love this game from ground to the moon and I don't think I'll ever stop playing. The criticism I have is that I would like to see multiplayer come to this game because I have seen many other games by you and almost all have multiplayer. So I would be stoked if it was added. The bonus idea will add another period of time, as it used to be in 2000 or 2010 to increase the grind of this game. Thank you for your time! Good luck, Sean Donlon I love this game. It's an addictive great idea, but I feel like conquest mode is better than scenarios because it puts you in a sandbox with a little free feeling, while the scenarios give you a sense of failure and locked in. These Axis are also very difficult. The only thing I don't like at all about the game is when you're going to take the city, but they're still deploying, and deploying troops down and eventually consuming their own troops. I feel that in Conquest you should be able to switch to Axis, Allies, or Neutral. I would also like to see you play as any country even though it is neutral or not. The African continent can benefit from more countries, instead of being accepted by France, the UK, Italy and ETC. I also feel that the generals need a stronger feeling, so I actually keep them. Eh just my opinion after all, prob not the best, but well. I just hate how you can't play as Liberia, Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Turkey, Sweden, Mexico, Cuba, Portugal, Colombia, Venezuela, Peru and Brazil. It just makes the game have a limited feeling of options. Oh, but don't worry that they have Mongolia and Bulgaria. Okay just my opinion just talked about bad, but don't let that get you down this game is still fun and addictive. I know it's going to be lost in with other reviews, but I've played since WC2 and a few EW games and enjoyed them. EW3 stood out for me in multiplayer mode, giving you control over many countries and letting you do what you ever want with them. Have a quiet period and then break out into the great war. So I thought what if you get a game where you can choose a country and you can still build your army and build things in cities like wc4, but you can declare war on whoever you ever want and form factions like the Allies or axis or even the Cominter. So you can play like what is described as 1930s Germany and build with a small army and then declare war on Poland, who can be allied with Britain. Or maybe the USSR is leading them to war. I've always thought about how cool it would be, because then you don't have to worry about constant attacks, while your country starts with 3 motorized infantry who have to defend their great nation. The same style conquest section as WC4, but arranged where you can do such as restoring the borders of the first German empire in Poland and France, and then ending the war if the adversaries allow it. It's just an idea that will be lost in this review section, but I hope developers will see this and take into account the Privacy Policy App Support WC4 may refer to: Wing Commander IV: The Price of Freedom Asteroid 1994 WC4, see 9083 Ramboehm WC4 type spectral star, see Wolf-Rayet star WC4, parasport bike classification, see C4 (classification) Dodge WC4, military light truck, see Dodge WC Series World Conqueror 4, mobile ww2 and Cold War simulator.
